

CLOSER LOOK: She's another who figures to take money off turf form; ran her best race off an 11-month layoff back in September, just missing in a turf route; that was an unusually weak race for the level, though, and she was exposed against tougher company in her subsequent starts; now moves back to dirt, a surface she hasn't tried since she was a 2yo; it's possible that she's just improved since that time, but it's not like you're going to get a great price to find out. - David Aragona