

Two stakes on Wednesday's card. Imprimis and The Goddess Lyssa, Florida-breds who each won stakes races in their previous start, are the morning-line favorites in Wednesday's Turf Sprint Showcase Day stakes races.

Imprimis, a 7-year-old gelding owned by Breeze Easy, LLC and trained by Joseph Orseno, has been established as the 8-5 choice for the $100,000, 5-furlong Turf Dash Stakes, which will be contested as the seventh race. He won the $75,000 Janus Stakes on Jan. 1 at Gulfstream Park, speeding 5 furlongs on the grass in 54.82 seconds.

The son of Broken Vow will break from the No. 2 post under jockey Antonio Gallardo. Imprimis is 9-for-17 lifetime, his top victory coming in the Grade II Shakertown Stakes in April of 2019 at Keeneland.

There are 11 horses entered in the Turf Dash, with My Boy Lenny a "main track only" entrant in the event wet grounds force the race to be moved to the main track. That is an unlikely prospect, given that two races were run today on the turf and the weather forecast for the next couple of days shows scant chance of rain.

Second choice for the Turf Dash at 3-1 is trainer Mark Casse's 4-year-old colt Turned Aside, a supplemental entry who won the Aqueduct Turf Sprint Championship on Nov. 28. Jose Ferrer will be the jockey.

Both Imprimis and Turned Aside will carry top weight of 124 pounds.
