

CLOSER LOOK: $1.5 million yearlong had a right to need that debut run sprinting last month, but he required no excuses when all was said and done as he kept himself in range while not looking to contest the pace, before moving clear and finally kicking in late to close that race down with a strong late finish; Curlin colt from the female family of a couple of Belmont winners is bred to relish the added distance of this race and is a very promising colt going forward.
